As we remember our natural state of love and wholeness, we regain essential trust in ourselves, the Divine and in life. On the journey of awakening, we encounter both gifted and wounded parts of ourselves yet to be restored. Difficult and challenging emotions can arise within relationships and with understanding, commitment and courage, every feeling can be faced and transformed, and the pain beneath it healed. As we heal, our relationships with others evolve. The true potential of every relationship is limited only by our unwillingness to forgive ourselves and others for every real and imagined wrong.

As our hearts and minds awaken, we naturally open to the love and beneficence of the Creator. Profound blessings await us! All of life, including the natural world, angels, spiritual teachers and guides become our companions as we journey into love.
